

About GOA...

- founded in 1933
- state trade association dedicated to developing and encouraging high professional standards of service and conduct among petroleum wholesalers
- membership is composed of Active and Associate members. Non-members may apply for membership in the association by submitting an application signed by an officer of the firm. The application will be processed and if approved by the Board of Directors, the firm will be enrolled as a member.
- governing body, which serves without pay, consists of a Chairman of the Board, the Immediate Past Chairman, three Vice Chairmen, and 21 Directors
- membership at the annual winter meeting elects the officers for a one-year term and seven directors for three-year terms
- President is a full-time employee of the Association and serves at the pleasure and discretion of the governing body of the Association.
- Convention held each year gives the opportunity of sharing an interchange of ideas with fellow members
- Convention, in addition to the regular business and committee meetings, features an excellent array of marketing seminars designed to help marketers become even more efficient and better able to take advantage of new profit opportunities.

These are some of the reasons a petroleum marketer should be a member of the Georgia Oilmen's Association:

- GOA members receive the benefit of over forty years' experience handling environmental projects by the staff of Georgia Oilmen's Services, Inc. (GOS). GOS' services include underground tank closures, corrective, action plans, remediation system design, environmental property assessments, emergency spill response, statistical inventory reconciliation, and underground storage tank system compliance audits.
- Since 1991 the GOA has provided members a stable, secure and competitive market for workers' compensation insurance coverage. The GOA's program has returned dividends of nearly $13 million over the past years to qualifying participants. With assets in excess of $10 million, the program continues to grow and offers GOA members a stable workers' compensation market for today and for years to come.
